REACTION TO TRUMAN AID PLAN VARIED

Lawmakers Anticipate That Part of Proposed Social Security Program
May Be Adopted

HOME RELIEF' SCANNED

Measure to Be
Rushed to Senate Floor

Washington, Feb. 22—(P)—Lawmakers gave this answer today to President Truman's request for a vast expansion of the Social Security System: The whole of it may pass—but not the whole thing.

The bill Mr. Truman sent to Capitol Hill yesterday, proposing (A) providing direct "home relief" to all needy persons; (B) blanketing 20,000,000 more persons under old age insurance; (C) greatly increasing the benefits; (D) raising—in some cases, tripling—the tax on paychecks and payrolls.

It was the "home relief" idea which ran into the closest scrutiny in Congress.

Top Democratic managers of security legislation Chairman Douglas (D-N.C.) of the House Ways and Means committee and Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee—took no position on the bill.

The program calls for an increase in payroll taxes from the present $1,800,000,000 for old age and survivors insurance, to about $2,000,000,000.

It would boost individual payroll taxes 100 per cent or more. The tax on a person making $4,800 or more could be increased from $30 to $48 a year.

The expanded insurance program would cover a total of 50,000,000 persons.

Members of Congress said they had no idea how far the unprecedented "home relief" program could go or what the overall cost would be.

Under this phase, the maximum payment in which the federal government would participate would be $50 a month for one person; $50 for the first additional person in a home, and $20 for each additional person. States would contribute 40 to 75 per cent of the cost, according to state wealth.

Such assistance from the federal treasury's general fund, outside the insurance program, now is limited to needy aged persons, the blind and dependent children. It now costs about $1,000,000,000 a year.

Governor's Institutional And Highway Building Program Starts Through Legislature

Harrisburg, Feb. 22—(P)—Administration bills to carry out Governor James H. Duff's $187,000,000 building program won quick committee approval in the house today.

The state government committee reported for floor action legislation setting of a General State Authority and a separate highway authority. The bills were introduced only last night.

The committee, headed by Rep. Ivan Watkins (R-Schuylkill) voted its approval of the bills at a meeting held before the house convened for the day's session.

"We are going to move these bills right along—but there is no particular hurry," Speaker Herbert P. Sorg, said as the legislation returned from committee. "We will give them all the study that is needed."

Duff has urged creation of the authorities—one to take on the long-range financing of $147,000,000 of new mental hospitals, educational institutions, penal institutions and other public works, and the other, to build $40,000,000 worth of state roads and bridges.

It was part of the administration plan to continue the mental hospital expansion plans without increasing taxes, since the construction bill was paid off by rentals over a 30-year period.

The highway authority also will eliminate the need for a six-cent tax on gasoline to continue the commonwealth's $100,000,000-a-year road construction program. The gas tax, however, would be boosted from four to five cents a gallon under another administration bill, already approved by the house.

The new General State Building Authority would be patterned closely after that set up originally by the Democratic administration of former Gov. George H. Earle and scrapped by Republicans four years ago.

It would have in addition power, to buy privately owned toll bridges and free them, and to build public schools, doing it with bonds financed from rentals from local school districts.

In the senate, meanwhile, there was no immediate move by either the finance or highways to act on the administration tax program, approved in the lower branch last week.

The governor's budget came in for a round of criticism in the upper branch from Sen. John H. Dent, Democratic floor leader, who called for "a complete investigation" of the Department of Forests and Waters.

Homestead Hikes Pay
Pittsburgh, Feb. 22—(P)—Ninety-two borough employees in the Homestead area voted a $2-a-month pay raise last night. Council also approved the 1949 budget of $387,000.

Bandits Escape
Pittsburgh, Feb. 22—(P)—Two bandits fled a downtown business establishment with $75 holdup loot last night while the proprietors followed, firing pistol shots into the air. The pair escaped.

Would Use Draft to Increase
Guard And Reserve Branches

Washington, Feb. 22—(P)—Use of the draft law to boost the National Guard and Army Reserve branches to over 1,000,000 men for "security" reasons has been urged by a civilian-military study committee.

The committee, headed by former Secretary of State and Supreme Court Justice James F. Byrnes, said last night the cost would be large but "we cannot afford a cheaper program."

"Our full strength must be maintained to preserve the peace of the world," the committee, named by President Truman, said in urging the expansion.

The group proposed an Army National Guard of 475,000 and an organized Reserve Corps of 579,300, for a total of 1,054,300, with the Selective Service law providing the desired strength, if necessary.

The group suggested that the states retain control of National Guard units as at present.

Weary Senate Labor Committee Spends Holiday Holding Hearings On New Law

No Holiday For State Lawmakers And Help

Harrisburg, Feb. 22—(P)—Pennsylvania 258 lawmakers, eyeing an April adjournment, decided to work today—Washington's birthday. As a result:

1. All state offices will be open on this legal holiday.
2. The commonwealth's more than 50,000 employees also be on the job.

Will Oppose Weakening Of Atlantic Pact

Washington, Feb. 22—(P)—A group of senators prepared today to fight any move which might water down the terms of the proposed Atlantic defense treaty in senate debate.

Five members of the senate foreign relations committee said privately they are ready to demand individually the strongest sort of pledge possible—short of an automatic war declaration—that this country will back its friends in Europe if they are threatened by Communist aggression.

It is their view that the tentative treaty language on this point, as shown the senate foreign relations committee last week by Secretary of State Acheson, is satisfactory—if it is not weakened in senate debate.

The exact language has remained secret but an influential Democratic senator said it will give signatory nations assurances the United States will not stand idly by in case of attack.

Some other senators said they fear the drive to get approval of the treaty by the necessary two-thirds senate vote might bring some between-the-lines interpretation which would destroy its usefulness as a psychological weapon.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) already has told the senate what he thinks about the psychological value of the proposed agreement between this country, Canada, Great Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

But Senator Donnell (R-Mo.) already has made it plain he will insist that there be no advance commitment—even an implied one—that this country will fight.

If all senators voted, leaders would have to muster support of 64 of the 96 to get treaty approval.

HOUSE RECEIVES BILL CHANGING BEER SALES

Harrisburg, Feb. 22—(P)—The House today received a Senate-approved bill to permit twice as much beer to be sold for consumption away from a licensed taproom. The present limit is 72 fluid ounces.

At the same time, the upper branch approved other changes in the state's liquor laws to prohibit exterior advertising at taprooms and to eliminate a requirement for one year's residence in a county where a person applies for a license.

Sale of beer in smaller bottles by case would be permitted under a third Senate measure sent to the House. Now only 12 ounce bottles may be sold that way.

County's Quota In 1949 Red
Cross Campaign Is $13,825

Warren county's quota in the 1949 Red Cross campaign for funds is $13,825, a figure just slightly under the total asked in the drive of one year.

Of this amount, a little more than half will remain in the home treasury for local needs; the remainder will go to national headquarters for use in its disaster relief program.

The above statistics are learned in a report of Monday night's meeting of the executive committee of the county chapter's board, held at Red Cross headquarters.

J. H. Alexander, campaign chairman, reported on the progress of plans for the drive, which will be conducted the week of March 7 and will be handled entirely by mail.

Other business transacted by the executive group included approval of the appointment of Mrs. Electa Briggs, of Youngsville, to membership on the board until the time of the annual meeting in June.

Chairman S. G. Davis was elected chapter delegate to the national convention to be held in Atlantic City June 27-30, inclusive, with an alternate to be selected later.

MOTHER AND SON WELL,
FATHER NOT SO GOOD

Cambridge, O., Feb. 22—(P)—Mother and son are doing nicely thank you—but the father, well, only fair.

That was the report last night from St. Francis Hospital after Mrs. Wilbur Alexander presented her husband, a 34-year-old World War II Veteran with a six pound, six ounce baby boy.

Archer fainted when a nurse showed him the baby. His head struck the floor and he required 17 stitches in his face and chin.

PRESIDENT LI WARNS REDS TO STAY BACK

Says Peace Efforts in China
Will End If Communists
Cross The Yangtze
River

SEES PREMIER SUN FO

Peiping, Feb. 22—(P)—The seat of the North China Peoples' (Communist) government has been transferred from Shenchichuang to Peiping.

Tung Pi-Wu, who was Communist representative in the Chinese delegation to the San Francisco United Nations conference, is chairman of the government here.

At the same time three Chinese newspapers, Hsin Shen Pao, the China Times and Peiping Times, failed to appear. Other newspapers said their plants were taken over Monday by the government's cultural section.

Canton, Feb. 22—(P)—Peace efforts in China will end if the Communists cross the Yangtze river, acting President Li Tsung-Jen warned today.

Li, here to try to unify his crumbling government, issued the warning at a reception. He addressed members of the national assembly and Canton residents.

Just what prompted the statement was not clear. The Communists have been content for seven weeks to stay north of the river while peace efforts continued.

The acting president came here to persuade Premier Sun Fo and the cabinet to return to Nanking. A short time after his cryptic warning to the Communists, Li took off by plane for Kweilin en route back to the capital.

Li's departure was much more cordial than his reception. At first Sun had appeared cold toward Li. But he and the cabinet saw the acting president off at the airfield.

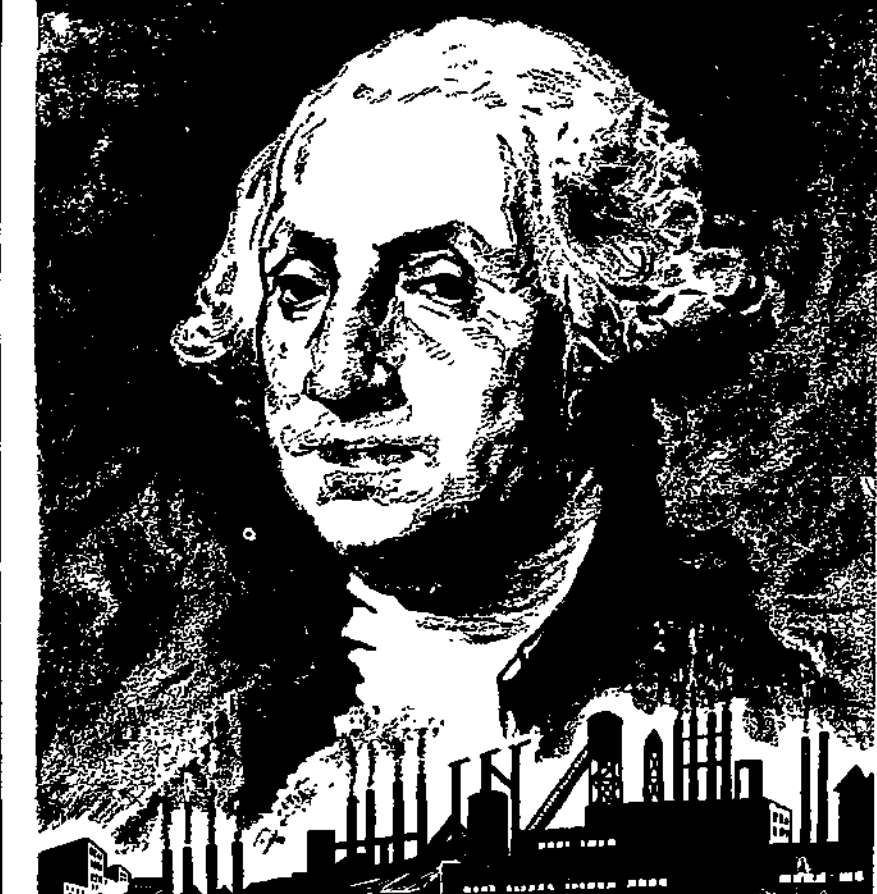

(In Hong Kong Professor Wu Yu-Hao, spokesman for an unofficial Nanking delegation, said he and two companions hoped to accompany Sun Fo back to Nanking within three days. The three were in Hong Kong to try to lay before South China Communist leaders UN's ideas for peace. Any "exchange of ideas" resulting from the Hong Kong visit will be reported to Li and Sun Fo, Wu said.)

At a cabinet meeting, following the reception, Li expressed confidence the government could stabilize the national economy.

"All we must do is strive for better governmental administration," Li said. He added that the gold yuan issues now in circulation could be redeemed with $20,000,000 U. S.

Li will fly from Kweilin to Changsha, home of his former rival for the vice presidency, Gen. Chen Chien.

The Communists have been sitting north of the Yangtze for seven weeks and have given no indication they intend to cross the river right away. Red Gen. Chen Yi reportedly told a Li emissary, guerrilla leader Li Ming-Yang, the Communists would not cross as long as there was a chance for peace.

"THE BENIGN INFLUENCE OF GOOD LAWS UNDER A FREE GOVERNMENT, THE EVER FAVORITE OBJECT OF MY HEART"

"Loyalty to the right, service to a cause, allegiance to the ideal of good laws under a free government."

"These great actors who played in it have passed away, but the same drama still holds the stage. The drop-curtain falls between the acts; the scenery shifts; the music alters, but the crisis and its issues are unchanged, and the parts which you and I play are assigned to us by our own choice of 'The ever favorite object of our hearts.'"

Former Leader of Bund Is Freed By Court In Germany

Munich, Germany, Feb. 22—(P)—Fritz Kuhn, former leader of the German-American Bund, was freed today by a German appellate court. He said he would try at once to regain his American citizenship, lifted during the war.

A denazification court had sentenced him to ten years as a major Nazi. The appeals court reduced the term to two years and took into consideration the 25 months he already has served in prison camps.

The judgment automatically freed him except for minor formalities such as getting his papers.

The court ordered 20 per cent of his property confiscated. Kuhn, however, said he had no holdings in Germany.

Kuhn grinned as he left the room.

"How does it feel to be free? Oh, it feels very good," he said.

While waiting for the court to convene Kuhn had been pessimistic. At that time he had said: "They'll give me the limit."

Kuhn was bitter about the Germans.

Kuhn's release came just one day after the tenth anniversary of the German-American Bund's big "rally in Madison Square Garden. But there was a sour note in Kuhn's rejoicing: That was when John Roy Carlson, author of the Anti-Fascist book "Under Cover," came into the corridor. Kuhn pointed to Carlson, who had testified against him in the appeal, and shouted:

"Get that Communist out of here, get him out I don't want to talk to a Russian. It is finished. I won't talk any more."

Carlson, an Armenian by birth and an American citizen, grinned broadly at Kuhn and shook his head.

Disorder Follows
Basketball Contest

Cleveland, Feb. 22—(P)—Gangs of young rowdies pummeled and stabbed a John Marshall high school fan and beat up another last night on Euclid avenue after Marshall won the city basketball title.

Both attacks occurred a few minutes apart and near East 40th street as the victims were accompanying their girl friends from the arena to parked automobiles.

There was no sign of disorder among the 9,714 fans during the game which Marshall won 42-40 from Cleveland Central.

The two boys were Kenneth Hall, 17, and Andrew W. Zedella, Jr., 18. Hall was in serious condition at Charity Hospital with a stab wound in his back, piercing one lung. Zedella was treated for bruises at Lutheran hospital and released.

Hall did not realize he had been stabbed until he had driven his automobile about a half mile and felt a pain in his back. Police took him to the hospital. They said it was impossible to identify the weapon used.

MEASURE TO BE RUSHED TO SENATE FLOOR

Washington's Birthday Observed in Both Chambers
Despite Numerous
Conferences

PROVIDES FOR REPEAL

Washington, Feb. 22—(P)—Washington's birthday was no holiday today for the weary Senate labor committee holding stormy hearings on a new labor law.

The hearings are scheduled to end tomorrow and Democrats, spurred on by impatient unions, sought to speed the measure to the floor. But some Republican members of the group may insist on their right to argue in committee.

The labor law being proposed calls for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act and substitution of a modified Wagner act known as the Thomas bill.

The committee, with its 8 to 5 Democratic majority, expects to approve the program as proposed by President Truman and send it to the Senate.

In the House, which must act on a labor bill eventually, northern and southern Democrats were reported to have reached a tentative compromise agreement on labor and civil rights proposals. The stand of the Dixie lawmakers probably will determine the outcome of the labor bill tussle because they hold the balance of voting power in the House.

Under the reported agreement, the southern Democrats would back a Taft-Hartley repeal bill wiping out about a fourth of the present law in exchange for softening of most of President Truman's civil rights program.

Republicans were said to have sought unsuccessfully to get the southerners to go along in keeping the Taft-Hartley law. In return the GOP had offered to line up solidly against the civil rights plan.

Washington's birthday will be observed in both chambers today despite hearings by the labor committee, the Senate finance committee, the House armed services subcommittee, the House foreign affairs committee, and others.

Senator Margaret Chase (R-Me) was called on to read Washington's farewell address in the Senate. Rep. Carl Albert (R-Pa.) in the House.

The House armed services group studied claims the armed forces are underpaid. Several investigators who have flown in jet bombers and crash-died in submarines agreed they were.

Three men recalled for testimony today are Father Cavanaugh, president of Notre Dame (Turn to Page Six)

Stalling Tactics At Express Terminals

New York, Feb. 22—(P)—Several thousand sorters, clerks, car loaders and platform men staged slowdowns or work stoppages yesterday in 64 depots and terminals of the Railway Express Agency in the metropolitan area.

There were conflicting claims on the extent of the demonstration, which a union spokesman said was a protest against alleged stalling tactics by the management in wage talks in Chicago.

Officials of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks (AFL) said the demonstration had halted work at ten terminals here and in New Jersey and also had affected operations at 54 other agency depots and terminals.

Management spokesmen said results of the men's actions were not great.

Police officials said after a check that the slowdown apparently would not become serious until tomorrow or Thursday, because of the Washington's birthday holiday intervening today.

Officers Are Selected For
Kinzua Volunteer Fire Dep't

At a meeting of the newly organized Kinzua Volunteer Fire Department, held last evening in the Morrison Garage, 42 charter members were in attendance and chose Richard Morrison as their chief for a term of one year.

Appointed to office also were Charles Anderson, chairman of the finance committee, and Don Bennett as chairman of the entertainment committee. Mr. Anderson and his finance committee will hold a meeting this evening at eight o'clock at the home of Troy Martin.

During the evening's business session, a motion was passed to buy a new truck with tank and booster pump as part of its equipment. The committee appointed to investigate the purchase of the truck is as follows: Lewis Smith, Louis Platt, Charles Anderson, Marshall Stanton and Wesley Sherman. This committee will make its report at a meeting next Monday evening at the Morrison Garage.

Other business to be transacted at the next meeting will be the election of three trustees. Chief Morrison will also appoint his assistants at that time.

Inasmuch as the fire company was only recently organized, the charter is still open for any interested in membership. Officers who have been elected are Lester Sheldon, president; Marshall Shirley, vice president; John Shipman, secretary; and Charles Anderson, treasurer.

Democratic Lawmakers Hit Back At State's Executive

Harrisburg, Feb. 22—(P)—Democratic lawmakers, scored last week by Gov. James H. Duff or opposition to his tax program, last night launched a counter-barrage against the GOP administration.

Rep. H. G. Andrews, house minority leader, said the Republican executive is building "a bridge to glory on planks taken from the democratic platform."

And in the senate, Sen. John H. Dent, Democratic chief there, called for a legislative probe of the state Department of Forests and Waters. He termed Duff's $988,000,000 budget for the next two years "a statistical jungle."

Andrews was replying to Duff's charge that the Democratic house members from Philadelphia "played politics" in voting against controversial gasoline and soft drink measures.

"It comes with poor grace x x x to castigate the minority that has leaned backwards to cooperate with the (Republican) administration," said Andrews.

Andrews said Democrats were not "traitors of the public interest" because of the soft drink tax opposition. He added the minority asked for slower action on the taxes so that the GOP can prove they were needed.

Two Philadelphia Democrats—Reps. Thomas J. Scanlon and Samuel Rose—joined Andrews in assailing Duff.

"The governor's tax program was jammed through the house with precipitous action," said Scanlon.

Rep. Charles C. Smith (R-Phila.) house majority whip, answered that only the support of the Philadelphia Republican delegation enabled the soft drinks and gasoline taxes to pass the house.

INJURY TO PRISONER IN ERIE IS PROBED

Erie, Feb. 22—(P)—The district attorney's office today probed circumstances surrounding the injury of a prisoner.

The prisoner, Otis Smith, 25, of Erie, underwent an operation at Hamot Hospital for removal of his left eye. He had been arrested Saturday for a traffic violation and, according to the police report, resisted arrest.

On orders from District attorney J. C. McLaughlin, all officers connected with the case were to be questioned.

FIRE IN SCHOOL

Uniontown, Feb. 22—(P)—Two runs herded more than 100 pupils to safety yesterday as St. Hedwig's Catholic church caught fire. The Smock, Pa. volunteer fire company brought the blaze under control in a 30-minute battle.

TO MEET THE PUBLIC'S REQUIREMENTS for telephone service, this company has spent more than $176,000,000 on new facilities during the last three years alone.

During the next few years, we shall have to invest many more millions to meet expanding needs.

Most of this money—the lion's share—comes from people . . . from thousands of people in all walks of life who invest part of their savings in Bell Telephone securities.

We must pay a fair return for the use of these dollars, of course. And we must keep them secure. They are as vital to the telephone business as the telephone business is vital to those who invest in it.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Mackenzie's Column

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AF Foreign Affairs Analyst
There was some easement over a weekend in the anxiety of prospective European members of the projected North Atlantic alliance over America's position towards the pact.
The Europeans have been pressing for positive assurance that the United States will give immediate military assistance in event of aggression. The point at issue in Washington has been how far America should go in meeting this demand.
There is now said to be some leeway—though no certainty—that the final draft may make some reference to the possibility of "American military action" against any country which might attack a member of the alliance.

The concern of the European countries about America's position isn't, I take it, due to any doubt that the United States would participate militarily in another major war in the old world. It's due to doubt as to "when" she would participate.

That matter of "when" is a mighty item in the calculations of the nations concerned. The consensus of military experts is that self-interest, if nothing else, would compel America to participate in another European upheaval. The experiences of two global wars have demonstrated that our forward defenses lie in the old world. I discussed this matter with an official of one of the European governments concerned in the proposed alliance. I can't name him, but he said the debate in Washington had produced some bewilderment among the European countries concerned. He thought it was creating abroad a doubt where a doubt didn't exist before.
"All my country wants to know," he said, "is that the proposed pact won't be without teeth. We don't want to see any aggression develgressor warned.

"Some of the prospective members would feel better if they thought that, the minute an attack came, an atomic bomb would be dropped on the capital of the aggressor. But they figure that if action was delayed until the attack was debated in Congress, the whole of Europe might be occupied by the aggressor."

This remark about the atomic bomb was, I take it, used as a figure by way of emphasis rather than as advocating such procedure. The point was that sufficient advance warning would be likely to prevent aggression at all.

Letters to the Editor

Bradenton, Fla., Feb. '49

Times-Mirror:
Well here we are in the land of sunshine, with nothing to do but enjoy it.

I know I didn't get to say goodbye to you before I left. I worked till the night of the third of Jan., and we left the morning of the fifth, so had little time to see folks.

We have been here for a month. This is our second stop of any time since we got here.

We are traveling by trailer, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Delbert Werle, and his mother, Mrs. Chas. Werle, are with us, with their own trailer.

This is the home of the large, Trailer Court in the world. The Bradenton Trailer Court with well over a thousand trailers. Run by the Kiwanis Club. Run on a non profit basis with all money going to charity. Their shuffleboard and horseshoe teams exchange games with the best of them in this section. They charge ten a month with everything furnished. Their spaces are filled early in the fall, and many never move from year to year, but come back to their trailer. I heard of one man that had his trailer towed in there new, nine years ago, and it has never been moved. They have their own band, that gives a concert once a week, motion pictures twice a week, dances once a week, and bingo and cards every night in the week but Sun., for the less active.

To give you a few figures on travel costs. Motels here charge six dollars a night, and we pay four a week, or fifteen a month. The trailer courts are building up so it is possible to get in most any place, but the Motels and car courts most all have the no vacancy signs out all day.

Everyone, in the trailer courts we have been in, are very friendly, and anxious to talk, and just as anxious to listen. There are a few braggarts, but I have found out that there are many wealthy people living in trailers.

Mrs. Ruth Sterling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Aubits, walked into the court the other day looking for us. They are in a cabin sixteen miles below Sarasota.

We were down to Bradens Castle Court last week, and Barclay was playing shuffleboard until we asked if anyone could tell us where we could buy a loaf of Butter Krust bread. That busted up the game.

We find living costs lower here than north. The days longer (the sun sets here about six thirty) and a nice breeze off the Gulf regardless of how warm it is. It has been between eighty and ninety days, and about sixty five nights.

We had a bumper delivered to us for seventy five a bushel, and grapefruit for fifty. This is the planting season here, and there are some large fields planted. It is possible, in places, to drive mile after mile, with truck gardens on either side, and as far back as the eye can see. After seeing a heavy team pull a fourteen in. plow at home, a saddle or buggy horse pulling the same size plow with ease thru the sand, looks funny.

We expect to go on down the Gulf and cross over, and come home on the East coast.

I am sending you a little poem I wrote about the folks here. If you care to, you may publish it.

See you all in the Spring.

To the Editor:
Judge Wade is to be commended on his handling of the case of Churchill and Hansen, the boys who shot off dynamite as a prank, frightening many persons and doing not inconsiderable damage to Warren property.

In effect, Judge Wade has made an attempt to save these boys from a prison term and probably resultant criminal lives; he has handed them a clean page on which each boy, and the man he will be, may start to write his life's story. In the Army the boys will receive a chance to become men and respected citizens of this country. We hope the boys will make the most of this opportunity and prove the correctness of the judge's decision in their behalf.

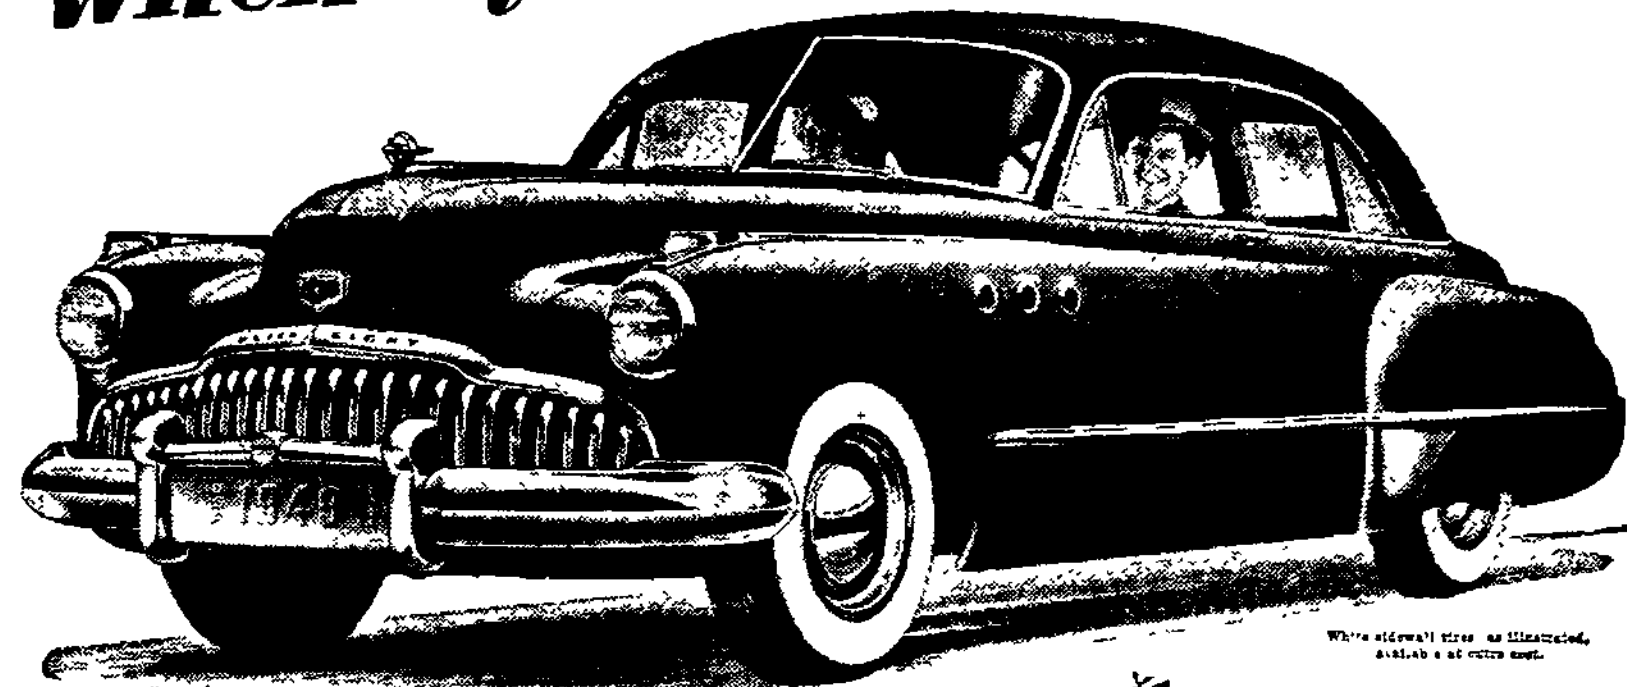

This case could be of even greater importance to us in Warren if we accepted it as a warning and a challenge to us parents to teach our children more respect for laws and for the rights of other people. In other words, when we see someone burn his fingers on a hot stove, it is absolutely necessary for us to apply our epidemics to the stove to prove that it is hot? J. B. P.

You're in Clover when Dynaflo takes over

IT'S something, really, you almost have to sample firsthand, for yourself.

For the plain fact is, there's only one Dynaflo—only one car in all America with a drive so completely and utterly smooth, so entirely unbroken in stride from standstill to cruising speed.

You just set a lever—and step on the accelerator.

In one swift and single surge, you move off smoothly on signal, slide in one unbroken flow of growing power into the settled easy stride of full-pace highway travel.

Where others break stride to shift, you swing smoothly by them.

Where some "automatic" transmissions call for a lift of the foot to let gears change, you flow steadily, smoothly forward in one unbroken sweep.

Stop signs? You simply brake to a stop—then go again with a treadle pressure when the green shows.

Hills? You take them in stride, with no thought of shifting on your part, no jar or jerk as automatic mechanisms shift gears for you.

In traffic you have no thought but watching for openings, taking prompt advantage of every one with a surge of power from your treadle's foot pressure.

Happy-as-a-bee in clover, you just sit there, steer, and go fast or slow at the touch of a toe!

Small wonder this is called the greatest thing in cars since the self-starter. Small wonder that Buick, wanting to offer it at the earliest moment to still more people, has made it available as optional equipment on all SUPERS.

A lot of your neighbors are going to be quick to go for that idea of the SUPER plus Dynaflo. Better see your Buick dealer pronto—and get your order in, whether or not you have a car to trade.

Here And There

The answer to the objectionable comic books should be sought through voluntary cooperation and self-regulation by publishers, wholesalers, distributors, retailers, parents and organizations, says a committee named by the mayor of Salamanca, N. Y., to study comic book control in that city. Since it is understood that preliminary steps have been taken in an unofficial way to control comic books in Warren stores, the Salamanca project is timely and interesting. The committee's report was made public last week by Mayor Robert L. Taylor, who stated that the work of the group should be commended by the "entire community." Mayor Taylor said the committee's recommendations will be acted upon right away by the Salamanca council. "The comic book problem is basically a problem of the home and the parents' interest in and control over the reading material of their children," the committee reported, along with a list of recommendations for consideration of council.

This and That: More than 100 DuBois Rotarians, their ladies and guests were present at the Hotel Logan last week when the Rev. Father Sixtus O'Connor, O.F.M., chaplain of Nuernburg prison in Germany for eight months during the trials and executions of eleven Nazi leaders were carried out, told the graphic story of the personalities and activities of the prison, which he outlined in Warren at the Elks Flag Day exercises last June. . . . Yesterday at Washington, Postmaster General Jesse Donaldson asked Congress to hike postal rates. The increases would meet an estimated 1949 department deficit of $528,000,000. Donaldson said second and third class mail rates are "particularly inadequate." . . . WASHINGTON AND DICTATORSHIP

For almost three-quarters of his life George Washington was the subject of a British crown which still granted considerable power to its monarchs. He was a soldier in the service of those monarchs. And even when he assumed the leadership of the new self-governing republic in America, it was in a world where absolutism was still the accepted and usual form of government.

It would have been easy for Washington, had he been a lesser man, to perpetuate himself in office. He was not only the first president of the United States, but he only one chosen unanimously. Though bitter political differences developed among those around him, his place in the public esteem was high and secure.

The spirit of independence in Washington's America was intense. But the spirit of democracy as we define it today was not unanimous. Considering the environment and education and habits of Americans so recently British, it scarcely could have been. Further, there was no constitutional limit put upon the president's tenure of office.

So Washington might have made himself dictator or even king. But with a wisdom prophetic in its depth of vision, he did not. At the end of two terms he retired from office. In doing so he proclaimed his faith in the principle of self-government.

He relinquished the presidency at a time when the infant republic was still struggling for recognition and survival. And his departure gave evidence of his belief that the American republic, in infancy or maturity, in weakness or strength, would find within itself the leadership that would guide it to growth and greatness.

Today the wisdom and faith of Washington are remembered in a world of new absolutism—a world at Stalin and Franco and Peron and, until recently, of Hitler and Mussolini. It is a world in which millions have accepted the loss of liberty and onerous yoke of tyranny in exchange for an escape from responsibility.

Such a bargain is not for the American people. It never has been. Only once, in time of grave crisis, has a president sought and the people granted a longer period in office than the two terms Washington chose. Now, as a tangible evidence of the abiding power of Washington's example, Congress has asked the people, through their 48 legislators, to sustain by law the first president's renunciation of the theory of the indispensable man.

Half the necessary legislatures have already ratified the proposed 22nd Amendment, which would limit any president to two terms in office. It is likely that, in the five remaining years allowed, the amendment will be put in force.

If that happens, then the country will have decided that while there have been many military heroes, there has been only one Washington, and that the instinctive wisdom that guided him had best be put into law lest some future generation choose and support a president who will yield to the temptation which Washington spurned.

A PLAN FOR HOUSING ACTION

Walter Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers, would like to do something about the country's need for millions of houses and the millions of feet of idle floor space in the country's wartime aircraft plants. He thinks that the factory space might be used to advantage in turning out prefabricated houses on an assembly-line basis.

It is Mr. Reuther's contention that, in addition to providing still-scarce housing, his plan would employ a stand-by force of aircraft workers who would be available in case of national emergency.

The Reuther plan is opposed not only by builders' associations, but by some aircraft manufacturers. The latter argue, among other things, that both airplane machinery and personnel are so highly specialized as to be unadaptable to any other line of work.

But the fact remains that there is a need for houses, and idle space, and increased unemployment. It might also be pointed out that the "Reuther plan" was put in operation even before he proposed it. The Lustron Corporation, which makes all-steel enameled prefabs, has taken over the vacant Curtiss-Wright plant in Columbus, Ohio, and will be turning out 30 houses a day by the end of this month. Predicted production by the end of the year is 180 a day.

Since so little has been done in more than three years to ease the housing shortage, Mr. Reuther's proposal at least merits a careful, unprejudiced study. It is one of the few plans for really quick action to solve what has become a chronic emergency.

Questions on 'Point Four' of Truman Talk Confuse Experts

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A select group of working stiffs in high government circles has run into 20 assorted kinds of complications. They have been trying to write the ticket to carry out Harry Truman's big idea for sharing American know-how with under-developed countries.

That's the way government works. Some hot shot at the top of the heap announces a new big headline policy in glowing terms. Then the technical experts are called in to figure out how to do it.

In the case of controversial "Point Four" of his inaugural address, the President apparently had no idea of how it would be carried out in detail. The job of planning it was assigned to Willard Thorp, assistant secretary of state for economic affairs. He appointed a committee. There is always a committee. In this case, some second or third level brass from eight agencies—State, Treasury, Agriculture, Interior, Commerce, Labor, Federal Security Agency, and the ECA Marshall Plan boys.

They called in the experts from about 26 other government agencies and the wheels started to grind.

MAIN Idea laid out in the President's speech were fairly clear. This is simply a program of giving technical assistance to those countries that want it. It is a big program for government capital investment in foreign countries through the more private capital assistance growing out of it, the better things will be.

But here the questions start to roll in. What kind of technical assistance will be the most helpful? What if any countries should be excluded? What is an "under-developed" country? How much self-help should be expected from these countries in return for U. S. technical assistance? What government measures will promote the flow of private capital to these countries? What guarantees from the U. S. government and from the foreign governments must private capital have on taxation, dollar convertibility and freedom from seizure?

Types of U. S. technical assistance given in the past include research projects, field missions, demonstrations, vocational education abroad, "in-training" of foreign technicians in the U. S. Which of these efforts are worth expanding and which are not?

So far, there has been no discussion with foreign governments on what they need or what they want. That will come later.

Another series of questions has arisen over what the limits of this program should be. How long should the program be for? How can a roster of experts be built up?

THE next questions were what type of project is best for development through the United Nations and which is best through a bilateral agreement direct between the U. S. and a foreign government?

How to co-ordinate this work with the United Nations subsidiaries—Economic and Social Council, Food and Agriculture Organization, International Labor Organization, Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization, International Trade Organization, World Bank? How co-ordinate it with the Organization of American States?

How co-ordinate it with other government efforts to do the same things through Institute of Inter-American Affairs, Interdepartmental Committee on Scientific and Cultural Co-operation, Export-Import Bank, the Marshall Plan and military aid programs?

Finally, how can Truman's Point Four program be put over in such a way that it will minimize or refute completely the frequent charges that this is just another scheme by the American capitalists to promote world imperialism?

When the answers to some of these questions are a bit clearer, you

Woman's Club Has Fine Address By Dr. Jack Wolford

Dr. J. A. Wolford, of the Warren State Hospital staff, presented a most enlightening and interesting paper on "The Influence of Psychiatric Literature" for the regular program-meeting of the Woman's Club Literature Department. The subject was ably handled and showed considerable research.

Dr. Wolford stated psychiatric literature has been written since the time of the Greeks and Romans and has continued to the present day, except during the dark ages. Although it has reached its height of production during the past decade, he said, the amount of its influence is questionable. The doctor explained that psychiatry is a young and struggling science that needs the help of modern writing to arouse public interest in the cause, prevention and cure of many mental ills. Through splendid books, prejudice and ignorance of race intolerance can be torn down.

Many examples of psychiatric characters from the classics, later date novels and plays were given, showing how the problems of these unfortunate people were brought before the reader. The speaker said that although most of the articles in the daily newspaper columns, ladies' magazines, and other publications, contain good, sound and thoughtful information, they do not solve the problems of the mentally ill. A tremendous amount of psychiatric non-fiction literature is being published, he pointed out, some good and some bad, and while the cinema is in a position to influence a great number of persons, thus far it has failed. Many recent books have crusaded successfully for the betterment of conditions for the mentally ill, he concluded.

Dr. Wolford stated that it should be inspiring to members of the Woman's Club to know that a lone woman, Miss Dorothy L. Dix, had accomplished the most for the mentally ill. Miss Dix, a school teacher, began her crusade in the United States when these patients were confined in prisons, not hospitals.

"John Loves Mary"

Staid and settled oldsters may scoff as they like, but the trials and tribulations of young love still continue as the center of attraction for most of the world and provide the central theme for most of the literary and dramatic works of this or any other day. Perhaps that is the reason why Thursday and Friday night audiences went out for "John Loves Mary," 57th public production of the Warren Players' Club. Packed houses just sat back in peace and comfort in the Woman's Club auditorium and watched the action get funnier and funnier as the plot unfolded.

From our point of view, the production pointed out no moral nor preached any sermon, here wasn't a single inn in the whole evening, just common, every-day life, and the good old earthy humor that is so much a part of the daily happenings in an average family. Dave Smith deserves a special sprig for his lapel in doing a fine job of directing. Maybe the order had better be increased to several sprigs, that they might be divided up among the cast itself. While most of the cast was new to Players' audiences, or comparatively so, there was little evidence of that fact in the smooth performance which each member turned in during the course of the evening. With the old timers in there pitching to bolster up the one or two weak moments of the play, the whole thing rounded out to one of the best evenings of entertainment the club has provided in several seasons.

Ned Shulman and his several crews worked untiringly in providing the attractive setting for the action and the usual 24-hour-a-day efforts of the properties committee were reflected in the stage accessories. With this successful offering already written into the club's long history of pleasing productions, attention now centers on the Mardi Gras Ball on March 1 for active and associate members of the organization and the studio plays to be given on March 8-9. More concerning both of these events will be announced within a few days.

450-year-old Choir Of Vienna Singers Here On Thursday

The Vienna Choir Boys, last heard in this country in 1938, will appear here on Thursday evening at the Woman's Club in the course of their first transcontinental tour in ten years.

The choir, established in 1498 by imperial decree, was introduced to the United States by Impressario S. Hurok in 1932, and thereafter performed here for six consecutive seasons.

Consisting of 20 boys, aged eight to twelve years, they arrived in this country last fall, just 450 years after their group was first founded.

Maximilian I, who instituted the choir, provided for the education as well as the musical training of the choir boys. Lessons in arithmetic, spelling, geography, and history are as much a part of a chorister's discipline as harmony and sight singing.

Each year a limited number of new members are accepted to replace those whose voices have changed. Before enrollment, the prospective choir boys must pass a series of rigid scholastic and musical examinations. Because membership is limited to 60, hundreds of applicants are rejected each year. In addition to the usual choir repertoire of sacred songs and Latin music, the youngsters perform costumed operas of all nations. One of the most popular, "The Apothecary," was written by a former member, Josef Haydn, who was himself a Vienna choir boy until adolescence.

The local engagement is presented by the Junior Chamber of Commerce music committee as one of the attractions in its concert series of the current season.

Speech Clinic Conducted in Local School

Warren's public school students who have speech difficulties will be given opportunity of securing specialized attention to their defects in a speech clinic being conducted here this week by two speech and hearing experts from Pennsylvania State College.

The men, Dr. Eugene McDonald, director, and Dr. Charles Elliott, assistant director, of the Pennsylvania State College Speech and Hearing Clinic, are here at the invitation of the local board of education and began their work this morning.

The program will continue through Wednesday and Thursday, with the two specialists returning for two more visits during the school term.

While they are here this week, they will study those children who have speech and hearing problems and suggest appropriate remedial procedures. They will provide teachers in the elementary schools with methods to be used with all their students. Students will be studied individually, with a teacher present. Directions will be given to the teachers and parents are asked to cooperate with the program.

One teacher has been chosen for each building: East, Frances Grosch, Home, Margaret Corbin; Johnson, Joanne Whitehill; Lacy, Frances Peterson; McClintock, Evelyn Swanson; Seneca, Grace Bell; South, Avonelle Anderson.

The in-service training of teachers will be given in a series of three meetings for elementary grades and in one session for Beatty and High School instructors.

In a preliminary survey, about 75 boys and girls were found to be in need of help to improve their speech and it is hoped that most of the corrections can be accomplished in the lower grades.

Committee Tables Advertising Bill

Harrisburg, Feb. 22—(P)—Pennsylvania's newspapers were described during a House debate as "guardians of the welfare of citizens and taxpayers."

Rep. George D. Stuart (R-Allegheny), editor of The Tarentum Valley Daily News, made the comment last night in answer to an attack on his move to kill a contract bid advertising measure.

The bill, backed by the State Association of Boroughs, would increase from $500 to $1,000 the limit of borough contracts that would not need to be publicly advertised.

Stuart moved that the measure be returned to committee, tantamount to tabling for the remainder of the session. His move passed 97-88.

Rep. Thomas Heatherington (D-Allegheny), a co-sponsor, opposed the action, declaring:

"The only opposition I can see is from the newspaper business. Some newspapers expect us to sit here and draw up legislation to satisfy only newspapers."

Describing newspapers as "guardians," Stuart replied that the monetary aspects of the bill did not enter into his thinking.

Advertising for bids, he said, is designed to protect "taxpayers and public officials both."

In reply, Sen. John M. Walker, GOP senate leader, said Dent was "merely expounding" Democratic views on taxes.

He said the general assembly's appropriations committees already had gone over the budget of the Department of Forests and Waters and found everything in order.

The Republican majority also speeded up its plans for an April adjournment. GOP leaders in both the senate and house announced four-day sessions will start Monday, February 28. So far sessions have been limited to three days a week.

They said after questioning many men in service, and personally testing some of the hazardous jobs the men perform, they believe the bill asking for an average 14 percent increase in pay is only fair. The overall annual cost is estimated at an extra $400,000,000. Biggest pay boosts would go to officers in the higher brackets, who have received only 10 percent increase in pay since 1908 while enlisted men in the same period have had their pay hiked as much as 400 percent.

The reciprocal trade agreements act got the blessing of the CIO today. James E. Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer, said in a statement prepared for the Senate finance committee that it would protect American labor.

RESERVE PILOTS TRY THEIR WINGS; FIRST FLIGHT SINCE END OF WAR

Copyright, 1949, by Acme Newspictures

HUNGARIAN WORKERS DO THRESHING ON AGRICULTURAL PRODUCING CO-OP

BEING BRIEFED—These reserve pilots, waiting in their flight togs, get the word on the "mission," which is about to take them winging off the USS Labon in the Gulf of Mexico. They are getting the latest news of weather landings and take-offs since the end of the war. The businessmen-pilots are on a cruise conducted by the Naval Reserve.

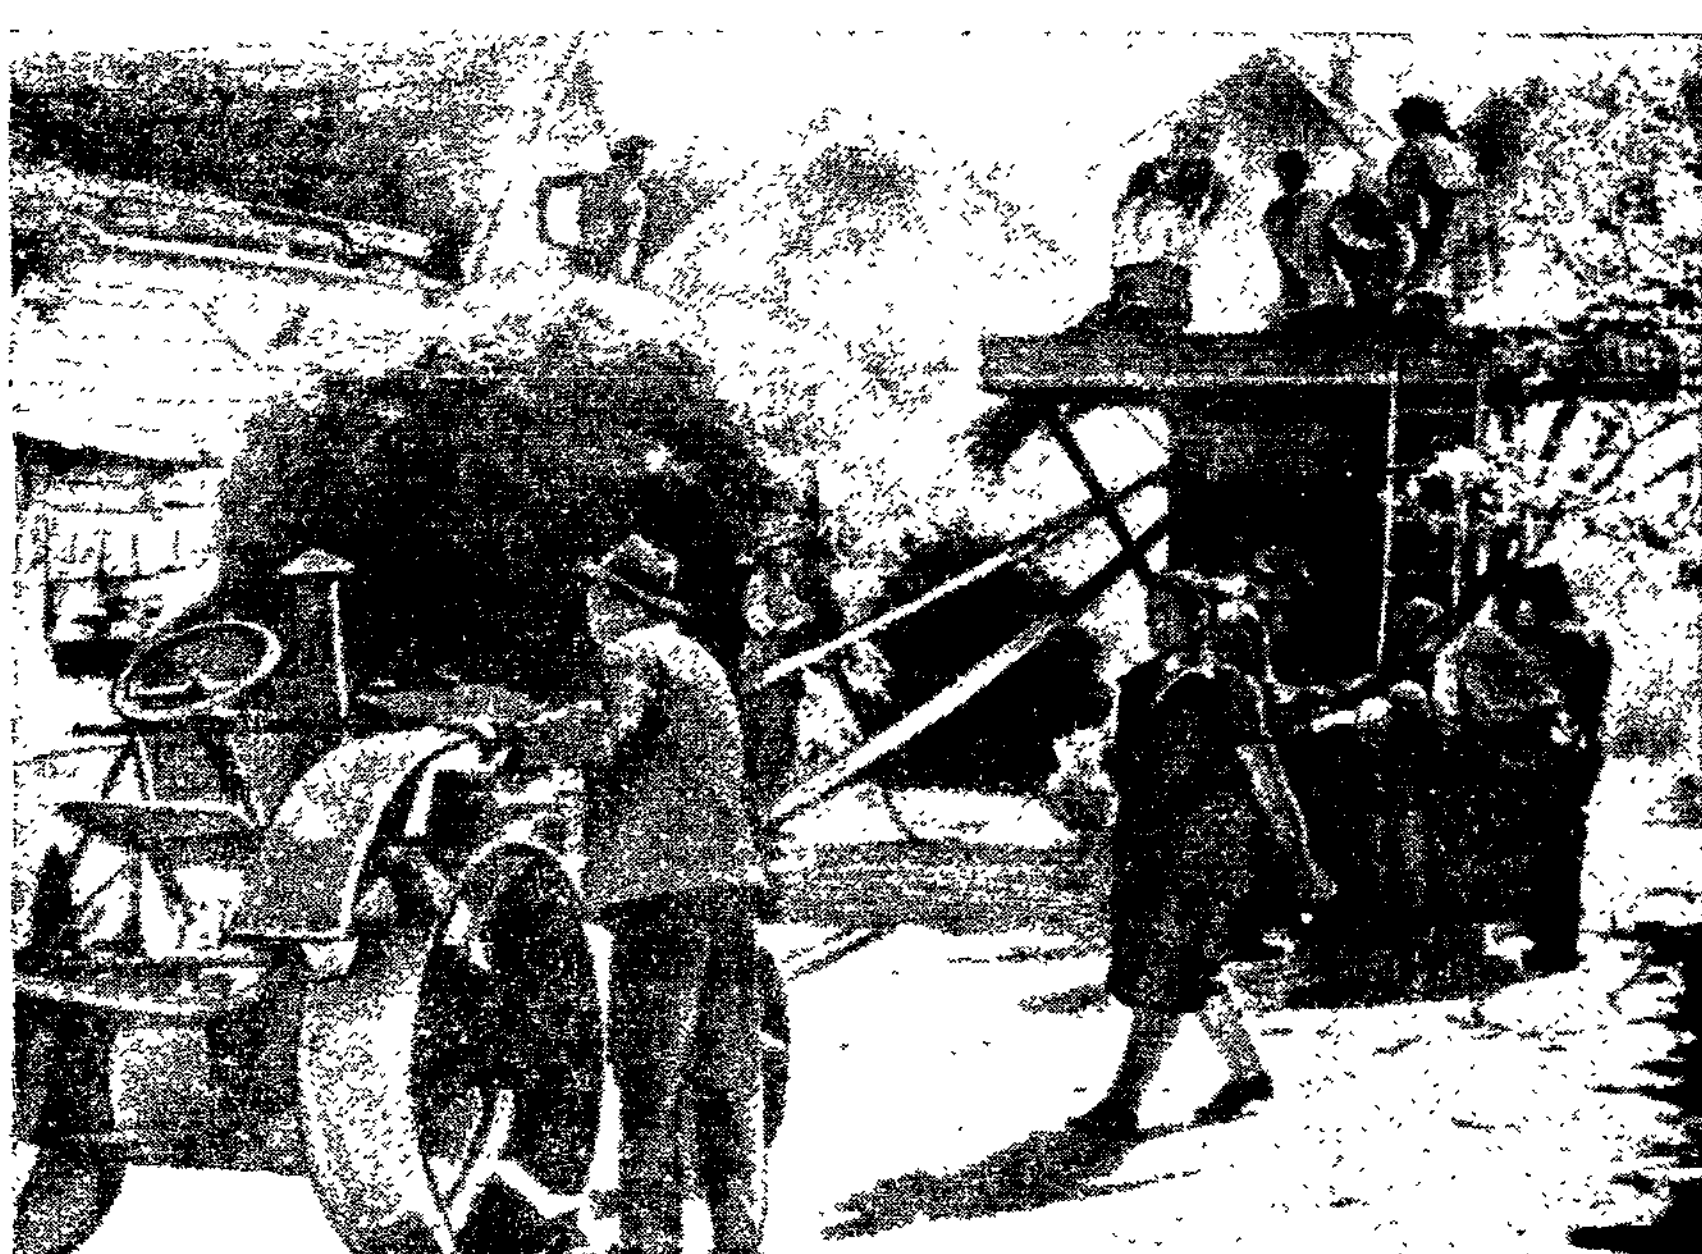

SAD LOOKING—But these two Basset hounds are probably very happy. Mrs. Leshe Kelly displays them at the 73rd annual dog show of the Westminster Kennel Club in New York. Belbay Design, left, and Ch. Belbay Treasure are from Belbay Kennels.

SHAPING UP—These dummies will be a part of the parade in Nice, France, when that city celebrates its annual carnival. This festival is the most famous of the French Riviera and every available dummy, mask and auto is put into shape by the townspeople. It all adds to the gaiety of the social season which is now at its height.

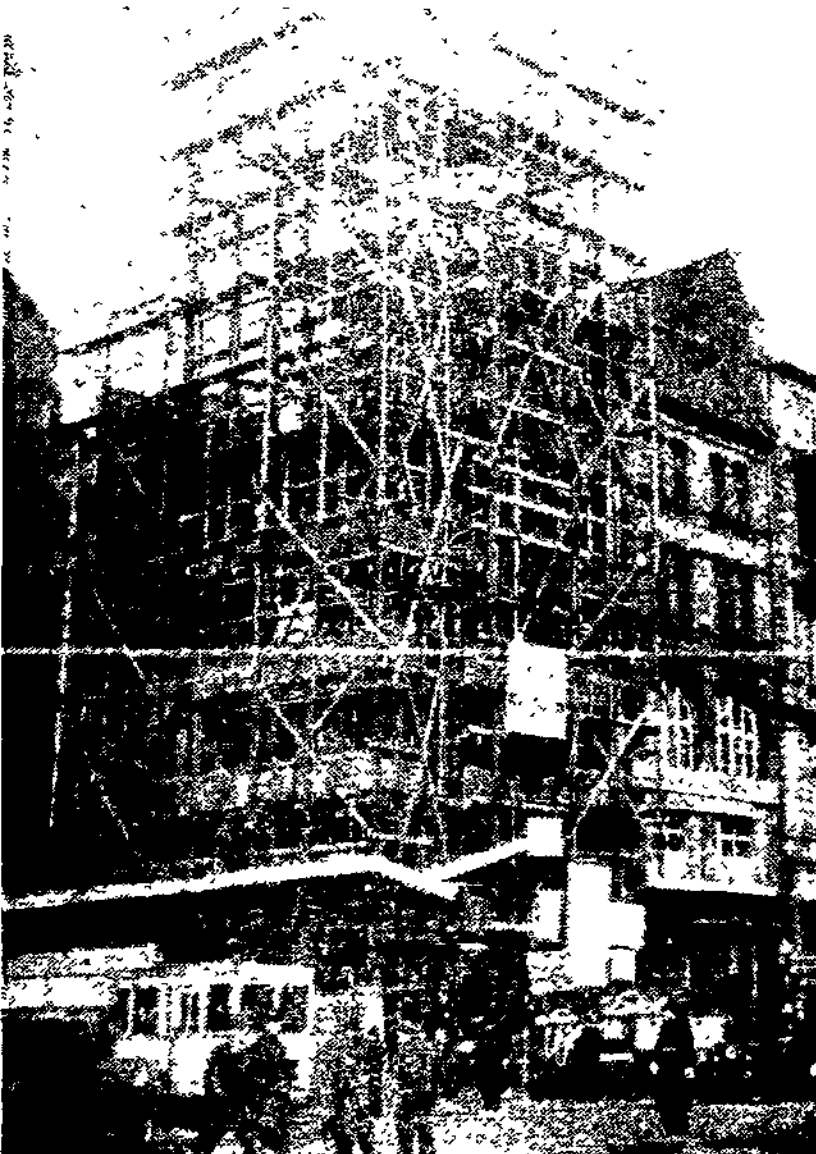

CEILING IN TUNNEL—This is the final push to completion of the ceiling of the new tunnel from the Battery in Manhattan Island to Brooklyn, N. Y. When opened, in 1950, the tunnel will be able to handle 10,000 vehicles a year and will be the longest in the U. S.

HUNGARIAN EFFORT—This threshing machine, employed on an agricultural producing cooperative established on the lands of Prince Metternich in Hungary, is being operated by a group of workers. The picture is a scene from the documentary film, "Democratic Hungary," which was made by Hungarian and Soviet cameramen. (Caption information from official Russian picture agency.)

SNOWY VISITORS—Mother M. Ignace Holtus, right, Superior General of the Sisters of St. Francis, arrives in New York by plane from Heythizen, Holland. It is her first visit to this country and, accompanied by her assistant, Mother M. Clarissa Asman, she is en route to Stella Niagara, N. Y., Seminary.

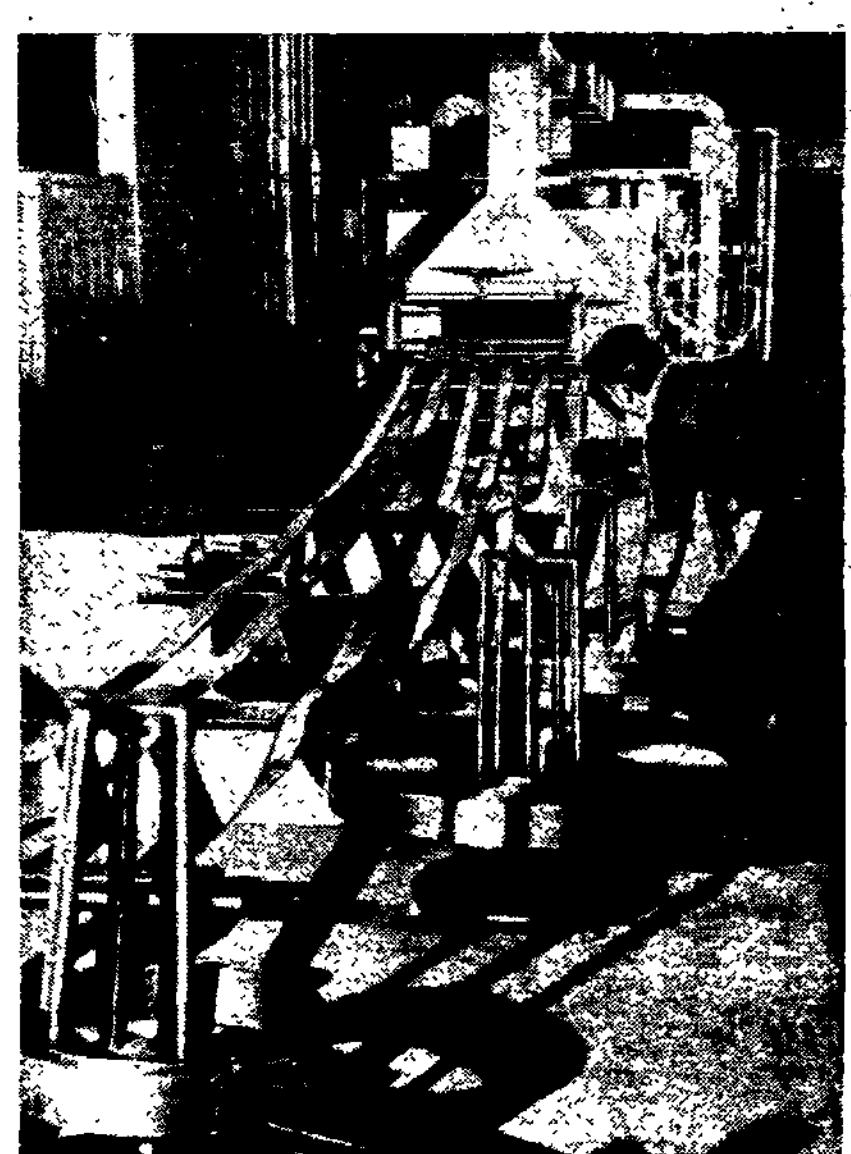

GERMAN SKYSCRAPER—This 10-story building is being erected in Frankfurt, Germany and will be notable in that country for its height. Although it is a steel frame it will be called "Woodhouse," after its owner whose name means "wood." (Acme photo by Werner W. Christensen, Staff Correspondent.)

PROJECTION—During a soccer game in Brentford, England, the goalkeeper on the Burnley team jumps onto the back of a Brentford player in an effort to ward off an attack on his goal. His Brentford opponent seems somewhat startled.

ROYAL RULER—When the SS Brazil sailed from New York to Rio de Janeiro, pretty Jean Mayne, of Garfield, N. J., was chosen Carnival Queen for the trip.

RIBBONS OF STEEL—These long strands of glittering steel are moving through one of the new automatic, controlled-atmosphere, annealing furnaces in a steel works in Harrison, N. J. Precisely regulated heat in the gas-fired furnace gives flexibility to the metal.
